Abstract

John Morel is among those of consequence in the early history of the Georgia Colony at Savannah. The eldest son of Peter Morel, he was born in Savannah at the dawn of the colony. He was a man of property, a man of letters, a merchant and a sea island planter. He was active in governmental affairs and was a patriot in the early days of the Revolutionary War. He was a member of Christ Church, the mother Church of the colony. During his brief lifetime of forty-three years, he was married twice and was the father of eleven children. In his will, written from "Bewlie" on the Vernon River, June 1774, John Morel bequeathed an extensive estate including Ossabaw Island, property in Savannah and at Yamacraw, property on the great Ogeechee and on the Vernon, to his four sons. He provided amply for his wife during her widowhood, and left substantial dowries to his daughters. His descendants continue to live in Savannah, and to take an interest in the life of the city.

Background

It is thought that the Morel name first made its appearance in Georgia in the person of Pierre (Peter) Morel who is said to have been born in Zurich, moved to South Carolina, and from there to Georgia soon after it was settled by General Oglethorpe.¹

Peter Morel's will, written in Savannah, 1752, is on record in the State Archives and is included in Abstracts of Colonial Wills in the State of Georgia, 1733-1777, published by the Atlanta Town Committee, National Society Colonial Dames of America, 1962 for the State Department of Archives and History.

Property

John Morel, the eldest son of Peter Morel, was born in Savannah, February 17, 1733.² In 1738, when he was five years old, he received a grant from General Oglethorpe (or the Trustees) of town lot number two, Tyrconnel tything, Derby Ward, with lot number sixty three (five acres) and farm lot number eight (forty five acres)³ which was held for him by his father. This town lot is on the southeast side of Johnson Square and is a part of the property on which the Manger Hotel is presently located.⁴ This is probably the property to which William Stephens refers in his journal, July 2, 1744, when he tells of placing Peter Morel, John's father, in charge of the German and Swiss settlers at Vernonburg and Acton, "since being born a Swiss and bred a soldier he spoke those languages well and was looked upon as a man of resolution interested in the Colony by tenure of land at Highgate in his own right, as well as a freehold lot in town in right of his son."⁵ Crown grant records indicate that town lot number two, Tyrconnel tything, Derby ward, was granted to John Morel January 16, 1756.⁶ This must constitute a reaffirmation by the Crown, of General Oglethorpe's prior action in 1738.

In addition to the above-mentioned property, the following Crown grants are listed for John Morel:

Christ Church Parish

500 acres, District of Savannah, granted January 16, 1756 (plat book C. p. 169--Grant Book B. p. 18-) Tract known as Happy Discovery. Bounded on northwest by Pipemakers Creek, southwest by village of Newington. Plat also shows tract bounded on N.W. by Isaac Young, originally given to Peter Morel, father of John. (plat Book C-p.169)

St. Philip Parish

Town lot # 36, Hardwick, granted Aug. 7, 1759, Grant Book B, p. 510.⁹

St. Andrew Parish

1500 acres (granted May 4, 1773--plat book C, p. 286--Grant Book I, p. 986) bounded on east by Joseph Woodruff, William Spencer, James Bourquin, north by Clement Martin west by James Luna, Joseph Butler, Joseph Gibbons, Anthony Stokes.

400 acres, (granted April 6, 1773-Plat Book C, p. 289, Grant Book I, p. 956) bounded on south by Altamaha River, east by Alexander Thomson, west by Charles W. Mackinnen, north by Anthony Stokes.¹⁰

Although in his will, 1774,¹¹ John Morel bequeathed the island of Ossabaw to his four sons, Colonial and Crown Grant records do not shed light on his acquisition of the property. Ossabaw, which had been reserved as hunting grounds by the Indians,¹² was ceded to the British Crown in 1760. This transaction involved a sum of two thousand fifty pounds from Royal Governor Henry Ellis to Thomas and Mary Bosomworth.¹³ The island was then sold to Gray Elliott, Esq. in 1760 for thirteen hundred fifty pounds.¹⁴ Although John Morel was in residence on the island by 1765,¹⁵ details with regard to his situation there are not known.

Letter to Benjamin Franklin

It is interesting to note that John Morel wrote to Benjamin Franklin in 1769. The letter, which was written, May 5, of that year and sent to Philadelphia with a small keg of bene seed, describes the properties of the seed, and states that it makes very fine oil. The letter was read before the American Philosophical Society, May 20.¹⁶

Merchant

Wharf lot number eight, west of Bull Street was obtained by John Morel in December 1760¹⁷ as a result of a petition, May 1759 for property "to build a wharf and warehouse under the bluff for the storing and shipping of merchandise."¹⁸ He subsequently entered into a business enterprize, Morel and Telfair which imported "a compleat assortment of European and East India goods for sale at most reasonable terms at their store on the Bay." Indeed, the column-long advertizement in the Georgia Gazette, June 16, 1763, gives a varied and exotic listing of goods ranging from "Irish linen, flowered satin, alamode velvets," to "shirt buckles in silver, dishes, copper scales, gloves, Bibles and knives."¹⁹

The Morel and Telfair partnership continued for only a brief period, for notice of its expiration signed by John Morel, was given in the Georgia Gazette, January 3, 1765, stating that "the subscriber intends to remove to the country."²⁰ This notice was repeated in the Gazette, February 2, 1765, with an additional warning to "all persons without distinction, not to commit trespass on his island."²¹

Government Service

John Morel entered into governmental affairs as early as 1756 when he was elected representative to the Georgia Commons House Assembly.²² Several years later, in 1761 he was among thirty five citizens who met in Council Chambers, February 10, to acknowledge by proclamation, that George III was King of England.²³

The Colonial records of Georgia during the 1760s and early 1770s contain many references to his governmental service. As representative to the Assembly, John Morel was charged with many responsibilities, a few of which include concerns with "roads, rivers, and creeks,"²⁴ recovery of losses of property caused by negligence of ship owners,²⁵ suppression of fires,²⁶ and security of citizens.²⁷ It is interesting to note that when he was absent from duty, February 1, 1771, "without leave of the house," a warrant was sworn for his custody.²⁸ However, upon explanation that "badness of the weather" had prevented his attendance, Mr. Morel was "discharged upon payment of fees."²⁹

Patriot

John Morel was a member of Solomon's Lodge number one in Savannah. His name appears in the minutes as early as 1756.³⁰ He is listed also, at a meeting, July 29, 1774, at Tondee's Tavern, northwest corner, Whitaker and Broughton Streets, at which a committee was appointed to send "five hundred barrels of rice for relief to The Boston Patriots"³¹ following The Boston Tea Party. In this convention were Brothers John Morel, H. Bourquin, Joseph Habersham, George Walton, N.W. Jones, John Houstoun.³²

Patriotic service during Revolutionary times includes membership in the Council of Safety formed June 1775 "to take charge and direct the affairs of the friends of freedom",³³ as well as membership in the Georgia Provincial Congress which convened July 4, 1775.³⁴ Members of the Council of Safety were: William Ewen, president, William LeConte, Joseph Clay, Basil Cowper, Samuel Elbert, William Young, Elisha Butler, Edward Telfair, John Glen, George Houstoun, George Walton, Joseph Habersham, Francis H. Harris, John Smith and John Morel. Those representing the Sea Islands District at the Provincial Congress were: Colonel DeVeaux, Colonel DeLaGall, James Bulloch, John Morel, John Bohun Gerreadieu, John Barnard and Robert Gibson.³⁶

Member of Christ Church

A diagram, framed and hanging in Christ Church, lists the owners of pews in 1763 with the amount paid for ownership. John Morel's pew, for which he paid 5 lbs -10, was number twenty-eight on the north aisle. Bartholomew Zouberbuhler was Rector. The document was executed by him, December 10, 1763 and sealed and delivered in the presence of Henry Younge and John Morel.³⁷ This pew was dedicated to John Morel in 1965 by his descendants, Emma Morel Adler and her sons, Leopold Adler, III and John Morel Adler.³⁸

Marriages

In 1755, at age twenty-two, John Morel married Mary Ann Bourquin, daughter of Dr. Henry Bourquin.³⁹ Four children were born in Savannah: Peter Henry Morel (named for both his grandfathers) February 20, 1757; John II, January 1, 1759; Mary, February 14, 1761; and Henry, who died an infant. A fifth child, Suzannah, was born on Ossabaw, August 10, 1765. The child lived only four days. To add to the tragedy, Mary Ann Bourquin Morel died on the island the day after the death of her infant daughter.⁴⁰

John Morel married again in the year following the death of Mary Ann Morel. His second wife was Mary, the daughter of Jonathan and Mary Bryan.⁴¹ Children of this marriage were Elizabeth, born November 1, 1767; Bryan, born October 9, 1769; Isaac, born August 27, 1770, Esther, born August 1, 1772; Anne, born January 9, 1774 and Hannah Bryan, born August 20, 1776.⁴²

Morel Family Portrait

A portrait, painted by Henry Benbridge of the family of John Morel, is described as follows in the catalog of an exhibition of Benbridge's

John Morel's Death

John Morel died January 3, 1776.⁴⁶ In his will, 1774, he bequeathed to his sons, Peter Henry and John, by his first wife, the daughter of Henry Bourquin, Esq., and Bryan and Isaac, by his second wife, the daughter of Jonathan Bryon, Esq. "all my islands called Ossabaw in St. Philips parish to be held as tenants in common, all my stock of horses, cattle, hogs, plantation tools, negroes, divided equally when they reach the age of twenty one. Daughter Mary, by my first wife and her two sisters Esther (Hetty) and Anne Bryan, by my second wife, 1000 pounds sterling each, when they are married or eighteen years old. Wife, Mary, 1000 pounds sterling in settlement of her Dower, 150 pounds sterling to be laid out in furniture or otherwise as she shall think proper, best carriage, two horses, annuity of 50 pounds sterling, 3 of my house negroes, both during her widowhood. Eldest son, Peter Henry, lot at Yamacraw, adjoining the Common of the town of Savannah, son John, lot number two in Savannah, son Bryan, lot number three in Savannah, son Isaac, 200 acres on the great Ogeechee in St. Matthew Parish. Four sons: tract of 500 acres on the Vernon river in Christ Church Parish, originally granted to William Stephens, Esq., named 'Bewlie' to be held as joint tenants."⁴⁷

The "Inventory and Appraisement of the Personal Estate of John Morel," (1777) consists of 155 negroes, 82 hogs, 29 horses, 3 pair large oxen, 321 head of cattle, furniture, tools, and a large market boat in poor condition. This was valued at L 14591,0,9.⁴⁸

Of his eleven children, Henry, Suzannah and Elizabeth had died before the writing of John Morel's will in 1774. Isaac died in September, 1777, a little over a year after his father's death, and Hannah Bryan was born August 20, 1776, seven months after her father's death.⁴⁹

The location of John Morel's grave is not known, although it is thought to be among the lost graves in the Colonial Cemetery. His daughter, Hannah, (whom he did not live to know) is buried here. Her tombstone, a marble slab, bears the inscription "Here lie the remains of Hannah Morel, daughter of John Morel, Esq., dec., who was killed by a fall from a horse, the fifth of April, 1793, aged 13 years, 11 months and 15 days."⁵⁰

For the death of Mary Anne (Bourguin) Morel, see The Georgia Gazette of Thursday, August 22, 1765: "Mr. Mary Morel wife of Mr. John Morel, died at Ossabaw on Thursday last [August 15]."

PROOFS

2 Generation

John Morel and Emma Walthour, both of Savannah, were married November 27, 1926, by The Rev. W. H. Tonnard Rector of St. John's Church. — Record of Marriages, Book 2 P, folio 597, Ordinance Office, Chatham County Court House.

3 Generation

From The Municipal Mortuary Records, Savannah:
Calhoun L. Eric Morel

Residence: 104 Harris St. East

died March 11, 1898. White Male Age 52

The Keeper's Records of Laurel Grove Cemetery give his age as 52 years, 10 months and 15 days and state that he was born in Savannah. He was buried in lot 1351, but in 1922 was removed to lot 367.

The Keeper's Records of Laurel Grove Cemetery show that his wife Margaret Lane (Mordcair) Morel died September 11, 1927, aged 76 years, 9 months, and 17 days, in Brewster, North Carolina and state that she was a native of Alabama. She was buried in lot 367

On their tombstones are the dates of birth: Calhoun T. Morel on April 26, 1845, and Margaret Lane (Mordcair) Morel on November 25, 1850.

4 Generation

William Morel and his first wife Ann Dorothea Wilson were married in Savannah January 1, 1840, by the Rev. James Sewell. — Index to Marriages, 1806-1851, folios 147, 148, Chatham County, Ga.

From the Municipal Mortuary Records, Savannah:
William Morel

Residence: Montgomery Street

Died August 5, 1868 W M Age 73

Born: Savannah, Ga.

Buried in Laurel Grove Cemetery, Lot 368

The Laurel Grove Keepers Records contain the same information

William Morel left no will, but the Administration Papers on his estate are in File M 435 in the Ordinary's Office, Chatham County Court House.

From the Municipal Mortuary Records, Savannah
Ann D. Morel

Residence: York Street, Precinct Ward

Died November 1, 1848 W F Age 29

Born: Savannah, French

Died of Puerperal fever

She was buried in the South Brook Street Cemetery, and there is no record of the removal of her remains to Laurel Grove Cemetery.

5 Generation

probably Peter Henry Morel and his second wife Ann Vallban were married in Savannah, Ga., on February 18, 1790. Proof of this is found in The Georgia Gazette of Thursday, February 25, 1790: "LAST Thursday was married, Peter Henry Morel, Esq. to Miss Nancy Vallban."

Peter Henry Morel was born in Savannah, Ga., February 20, 1757, and died from a fever contracted on his Ogeechee River plantation May 9, 1812. — South Gaston Bulloch, M.D., A History and Genealogy of The Families of Bellinger and De Vaux... (1895), pages 81, 83. These dates were apparently copied by Dr. Bulloch from a Family Bible which cannot now be located.

Peter Henry Morel's Will is in File M 137, Ordinary's Office, Chatham County Court House.

From the Municipal Mortuary Records, Savannah:
Ann Morel

Residence: York Street, Percival Ward
